Call for abstracts

Since its inauguration, one of the missions of the Psycho-Social Aspects of Diabetes (PSAD) Study Group has been to improve the quality of psychosocial research in diabetes. We invite you to submit your abstract to the 31st PSAD Conference in Kraków, Poland.

Abstract categories

Completed work — data collection and analysis are complete and results are available.

Work in progress — the study or project is underway and final results are not yet available.

PSAD values research with clear clinical relevance and the potential to improve clinical practice.

Required abstract structure

Category	Headings within the 250-word abstract body
Completed work	Aims; Methods; Results; Conclusion / Discussion
Work in progress	Aims; Design / Methods; Planned analysis; Expected outcomes; up to three problems or questions for discussion

Submission requirements

Language: English.

Abstract body: maximum 250 words. The title, authors, affiliations and keywords are not included in the word count.

Title: maximum 50 words; type it in capital letters and do not use abbreviations or acronyms.

Abbreviations: define each abbreviation at first use in the abstract body.

Do not include in the abstract body: references, figures, tables, footnotes, author names, affiliations or other identifying information.

Keywords: provide three to five keywords.

Language and tone: use clear, respectful and non-stigmatising language appropriate for a multidisciplinary audience.

Information to provide in the online form

Corresponding author: full name, institution, country and email address.

Abstract: category, title, abstract body and three to five keywords.

Authors and presenter: all authors in publication order, their affiliations, and the presenting author's name and email; do not include academic titles.

Presentation preference: oral presentation, poster presentation or no preference.

Presentation format

Authors may indicate a preference, but the Scientific Committee will make the final decision on acceptance and presentation format.

Review and selection

Each abstract will be assessed by a group of international reviewers, with the submission category taken into account. Final decisions rest with the Scientific Committee.

Author responsibilities

The submitting author must obtain all co-authors' approval and is responsible for the accuracy and ethical compliance of the submission. If accepted, the presenting author must register by the deadline stated in the acceptance notification.
